Bestselling Novelist Lauren Oliver at Eugene Public Library

The Downtown Eugene Public Library will host a visit by Lauren Oliver on Saturday, March 9, at 4 p.m., the same week that legions of teen and adult fans worldwide will celebrate the release of "Requiem," the final book of her bestselling "Delirium Trilogy." Admission is free.

The first two books in the series, "Delirium" and "Pandemonium" were back-to-back international bestsellers. The story is set in a world where love is deemed illegal and can be eradicated with a special procedure. With 95 days to go until her scheduled treatment, the tale's heroine does the unthinkable: she falls in love. The television rights to the trilogy have been purchased for development as a Fox series starring Emma Roberts.

"Delirium" was named a top book of the year by NPR, USA Today, Amazon, Kirkus Reviews, Barnes & Noble, and Publishers Weekly. Oliver's debut novel, "Before I Fall," was named to NPR's Best Books of 2010 and Amazon's list of Top 10 Young Adult Books of 2010. In addition to writing, Oliver is co-founder of the literary incubator Paper Lantern Lit.

Oliver will be joined in Eugene by young adult authors Debra Driza ("Mila 2.0"), Claudia Gray ("Spellcaster"), Dan Wells ("Fragments"), and Kiersten White ("Mind Games"), who are traveling together as the HarperCollins "Dark Days Tour." The writers will discuss their works, share tricks of the trade, and offer advice on getting published at a young age.
