Internal Affairs Case Summaries
For Cases Closed in January 2012

Conformance to Laws: The reporting party alleged that officers stole items belonging to him during the course of his arrest. The allegation was investigated criminally and reviewed by the DA. The investigation included interviews of the reporting party, officers, and witnesses, together with a review of the in-car video and other relevant police records.

The investigation revealed that one of the allegedly stolen items was later recovered from a venue where the reporting party had spent time prior to his arrest. The investigation revealed no evidence to support that the officers stole any property from the reporting party. Therefore, the allegation was adjudicated as UNFOUNDED.

Conduct: It was alleged that an employee knowingly released confidential information from the Automated Records System outside the criminal justice system. The investigation consisted of an interview with the employee, together with a review of the recorded phone call at issue and other relevant criminal justice records.

The investigation revealed evidence that supported the allegation as alleged. The Confidentiality allegation was SUSTAINED.

Constitutional Rights: The reporting party filed a complaint related to the constitutionality of his arrest and the search of his home in October 2010. The allegation was DISMISSED for timeliness.

The Eugene Police Department received 28 commendations in January, 2012.
Below is a sampling.

The reporting party thanked officers for responding to a car accident she was involved in: "I can't begin to tell you how grateful I am for your kindness and professionalism. You helped keep me calm in a very scary situation. Thank you a million times."

The reporting party commended an officer's demeanor in an off-duty incident. He felt the officer handled himself well when a conversation became tense and emotional: "I could tell that he was thinking very fast, and he was talking very slow... He was able to kinda back it right back down to where everyone was back in a great mood... what a fantastic representative of the Eugene Police Department."

The reporting party called to commend an officer's response to a burglary at his home: "He's a good, veteran officer...He was very thorough, and he was more than willing to go the extra. He worked very hard at this."

The reporting party commended an officer for his compassionate response to some questions she had regarding her mother's death in June, 2011. She recently called the officer with some questions when "the what-ifs" started troubling her. The officer talked to her on the phone and "really eased my mind....he was so kind, and just really professional, kind, and sincere."

The reporter thanked the EPD employees who responded to a Prowler call: "I thank your Dispatcher for keeping me calm on the phone and I thank the Officers and their canine for arriving so quickly in order to safety check my home."

The reporting party commended the officers who responded to a mental health transport call: Of one, he said, "I was immediately impressed with how she took charge. She was able to do this in a respectful manner and also allow for input about the situation." The other officer "demonstrated the kind of attitude and professionalism necessary for good outcomes to delicate situations.... his behavior, demeanor, attitude and action indicated a mature understanding of how to interact with an individual having mental difficulties."

The reporting party wrote to an officer to apologize for her behavior during an encounter and to commend his response: "to me you showed care, without getting personal. You were firm and you listened to me and understood me as a person. You did not indicate you were just here doing a job, but that you cared about the people in your community. Above all you demonstrated a high level of integrity & professionalism."

The reporting party commended the responding officers for their handling of a call involving one of her students: "[the officer] was skilled in his questioning of the student and continued to talk with him about potential patterns and consequences of aggressive behaviors. I am fully aware of the gravity and intensity of what our police officers deal with daily; this incident may have seemed minor in comparison, yet the Officers were supportive of me, my intentions and our program. I appreciate both officers' time and assistance in this matter and am pleased to report that this is another example of the Eugene Police Department's excellent collaboration as a community partner. "
