Traffic Enforcement Unit
to focus on areas of high crash-rates

Officers with the Eugene Police Department’s Traffic Enforcement Unit will be focusing on areas that statistics have shown to have high crash-rates. Multiple officers will enforce all traffic laws with attention primarily focused on the following violations:

- Speed

Police officers stop drivers for violations every day, but certain violations continue to be a frequent occurrence and major cause of vehicle collisions in Eugene. The intent of the operation is to educate the public and to reduce the number of crashes and conflicts between all road users including motor vehicles, bicyclists and pedestrians.

Officers will make traffic stops at several different locations over the course of six days. Here is the list of the following days and locations:

- February 26 - Valley River Way and Valley River Drive
