A camp for every child
Eugene Rec summer camps offer youth the opportunity to explore what they love, learn new skills and forge lasting friendships in a safe, supportive environment. With an astonishing breadth of activities, we truly have a camp for every child!

How do I sign up?
Register online or through any Eugene Rec community center or pool. Some camps may accept a deposit to reserve your child’s place. Contact the center for details.

What if my child needs accommodations?
All camps are open to all children regardless of ability. We take a team approach to include children who require extra support, with camper safety as our number one priority. Visit our website for more information or to fill out an inclusion request form. Please give us two weeks notice. For more information see page 6. Quest Camps are specifically designed for youth with disabilities; see pages 28-30, camp ➀.

What else do I need to know?
We must have a current Summer Camp Health Form on file for all campers. Forms are available online. Read the description of your selected camp carefully and plan accordingly – you may need to pack a lunch or sunscreen for your child. Complete information packets, including detailed schedules, will be emailed out after registration.

COVID-19 precautions
All camps follow state guidelines and community health best practices. State guidelines limit the number of campers that can be in a stable group to 20 and we can’t mix children from different groups. Comprehensive information about program guidelines and protocols will be included in the information packet.

Finding the right camp for your child
Matching your child’s personality and interests is an important part of choosing the right camp. Consider the camp’s staff-to-child ratio, level of activity and the total number of kids to determine which camp environment best suits your child’s personality and temperament. For more information about each camp, call the facility and speak with our staff.
