

One and Two Family Dwelling File Naming Standards

Residential projects must follow these file naming standards to facilitate rapid recognition and retrieval of files by our Plan Review teams.

1. All drawings must be individual pdf files.
2. Files must be submitted in pdf format and must not be locked. Locked files are not accepted by the system and prohibit our ability to approve the drawing.
3. Each file name should include a two-digit number used to control the sort order of documents during review. The number value in front of the file name ensures the display order.
4. All file names must reflect the content of the drawings.
5. If you would like to include the job number, name, or tracking code in the file name, add it at the end of the file name. It makes it difficult for plan reviewers to sort and review your drawings if it's inserted at the beginning of the file name.
6. Documents that are 8 ½ by 11 and are not intended for construction details, such as structural calculations, can be submitted as a multi-page pdf and do not need to include a sort order.
7. Although staff prefer that the site/plot plan includes the location, size and type of stormwater facility/facilities, if a separate stormwater site plan is being provided, submit it as a single drawing.
