

UpStream Art –2022 Application Information

Due August 25, 3:45 p.m.

What is UpStream Art?

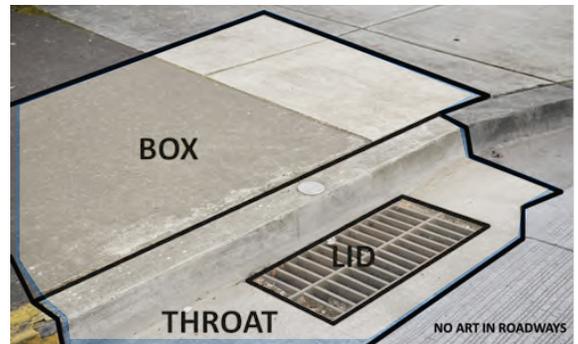

Many people in Eugene don't know that the storm drains that we find on every street lead directly to local rivers and streams. This year, the City of Eugene is introducing an UpStream Art project as a way to catch people's attention and inform them about storm drains, their connection to our rivers, and the importance of keeping pollution out of them. Local artists are invited to paint murals on storm drains with visual messages about protecting water, stream habitats, and aquatic wildlife from pollution. This project is part of the City's education and outreach efforts to help residents understand that stormwater flows untreated to our local waterways, and that everyone has a role in helping to keep waterways clean for people and wildlife alike.

What are we looking for?

The theme for 2022 is "Clean Rivers Start Here." A committee made up of people from the City, Eugene business-ess and the art community will select designs from the works submitted. There are up to four storm drains identified for the 2022 project. Artist selection will be based on how well the theme is conveyed, how well the art depicts that storm drains lead to rivers and how well the art encourages the community to help protect local waterways. The artwork must include the following words somewhere in the design: happyrivers.org (it is not necessary to include the words "Clean Rivers Start Here" in the art).

Art parameters

Artwork will be limited to an area adjacent to a storm drain structure. This is the concrete sidewalk and curb next to the opening of the storm drain (the box and throat areas on the photo at right). The general size of this area is 4'x6', but this will vary with each drain. The art cannot extend into the street. Artists will be assigned a storm drain upon selection of their design. Artists will have up to ten days after notification of selection to make MINOR modifications to the design to fit the assigned location. This final design must be approved by the City. It is highly encouraged that each artist visit the site before installation day. Art must be tasteful, original and relate visually to the theme and storm drain.

What to expect

Each storm drain site will be power washed before the project begins. They will also be coated with Seal-Krete® Clear Coat before and after the painting is done. Specialized sidewalk paints in primary colors, white and possibly black will be provided for artists to use. Artists may mix provided paint to achieve the colors they desire. Once the painting is completed, photos will be taken. These will be used in the City's outreach and education materials and artist recognition will be included. The artwork is expected to last anywhere from three to five years. The City reserves the right to remove storm drain artwork at any time. Artists selected to participate in the UpStream Art project must sign a contract agreeing to complete the mural on time, use the sidewalk paints provided by the City, paint the City-approved design as submitted, and release ownership of the storm drain mural artwork to the City of Eugene. The artwork must be completed on Friday and Saturday, September 29-30. The site will be available from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day, giving the artist 10 hours to complete the artwork.

Each artist selected (up to four total) will receive $1,000 total compensation after the artwork is installed. City of Eugene hopes to provide a fun and engaging experience to the community with your help. We appreciate your willingness and ability to meet all deadlines and complete your original design (see schedule on the application form).

Both Eugene and Springfield have Upstream Art to view. For Eugene, happyrivers.org or Springfield visit springfieldstreams.org to see what other artists have created for storm drains. The City of Eugene also has many videos and fact sheets to help you learn about stormwater and pollution prevention on our site happyrivers.org.
